MASONS' DAY AT THE FAIR.

VISIT OF THE GRAND LODGE AND MORTON COM-MANDERY KNIGHTS TEMPLAR-DESWING FOR

The 7th Regiment Armory Fair prospered yesterday in spite of the rain. In the afternoon the attendance was small compared with the previous days of this week. In the evening there were far more people present than might have been expected considering the disagreeable night. Within the armory all was brightness and beauty. Many prominent persons were present. A leisurely interest was taken in the attractions of the fair. The floor was not so crowded as to interfere with the promenade, which was animated, and was cheered by the music of Graffula's band.

In was "Freemasons' Night," and the officers of the Grand Lodge attended in a body. They were escorted by Morton Commandery No. 4, Knights Templar. This fine body of men, numbering about 130, and commanded by A. G. Goodall, had announced that they would march to the Armory Building in full uniform from their lodge rooms This they did in defiance of the storm and regard less of the fact that they would be compelled to walk nearly two miles and a half over a wet pavement. They entered the armory at 8:41 o'clock. looking very valiant but considerably the worse for uniforms well soaked with rain. Captain Kemp. of the 7th Regiment Veteran Corps, who is a Knight Templar, had charge of the reception. When the Knights were drawn up in single file the procession of officers of the Grand Lodge advanced to the floral temple, where Colonei En.mons Clark and the other officers of the regiment received them. Among the Grand Lodge Officers we a Grand Master Charles Roome, and Past Grand Master Elwood E. Thorne. The reception lasted half an bour.

The Committee on Drawings were very binsy last evening. Company C's diamand earrings, valued at $600, were brought to fortune's wheel, and Commissary Roder, after shaking up the tickets vigorously, drew forth No. 277. Mrs. W. H. Heisser was in the committee-room to see the drawing. When the lineky number was announced she drew her own ticket from her pocket and was pleased to find that she owned the earrings. Mrs. Watson, of No. 30 West Thirty-sixth-st., held ticket No. 261 in Company D's raille for the Stivers Wagon, valued at $500, and won the prize. The Winchester rifle, valued at $500, and won the prize. The Winchester rifle, valued at $37 50, was drawn by Lieutenant G. W. Rand.

THE LITERARY REVOLUTION.

Leading principles of the American Book Exchange:

I. Publish only books of real value and high literary merit.

II. Work upon the basis of the PRESENT COST of making books, which is about one-half what is was 11. Work upon the basis of the PRESENT COST of making 500as, which is about one-nair what is was a few years ago.

III. Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 or 60 per cent commission, commonly allowed agents and dealers.

IV. The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost per copy when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.

V. Use good type, paper, &c., do careful printing and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," V. Use good type, paper, &c., do careful printing and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily leaded type, spongy paper and gandy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.

VI. To make $1 00 and a friend will pay better in the end than to make $5 00 and an enemy.

WHICH STYLE TO BUY.

The type is the same in all. The paper in the ACME edition is light, but excelent in quality, and all that is generally desired. All of our bidding is extra well done. The cloth binding is very neat, and will serve for many years of good usage. The half moreous more chegant, as well as more durable, and to any one who can stare the small additional cost it is much the more desirable style.

The ALDUS edition is printed with extra care on superfine and heavy paper, with much wider margus. In this form it is unrivalent for heavily, excellence and convenience of form, by any cyclopacita ever under at any price.

The greater the number and the earlier the subscriptions we receive, the ness as the risk and expense of publication, and the more widely and early the volumes are scattered among subscribers, the greater the results of tach influence in inducing other subscriptions. We accordingly atopt the plac, as here slope is other publications, of allowing special reduction from above prices to those whose orders are soloest received, as follows:

20 per cent discount to the first 10,000 subscribers.

A History, Critical and Biographical, of British and American authors, with specimens at their writings, originally edited by absert Chambers, LL.D. Third edition revised by Robert Carrothers, LL.D. First American edition, unabridged and unaltered.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

The listory of letters records no cyclopædia of the National literature of any people which can be reasonably compared with the work—withits clear type on clear paper, it seems to realise the schoolmen's idea of the perfect connection of substance and form.—The Living Church, Chicago, Ili.

DICKENS—SCOTT—COOPER.

The Riverside Press, of Houghton, Osgood & Co., have published the Globe Editions of the novels of Str Waiter Scott, Coarles Diesers and James Penimore Cooper. They are printed from large type of excellent face for reading; the incline is tasted at a datactive, and they are in all respects the best and most destrable popular chilors of these world-famous novels ever published in this comery.

The ferce competition of some of the wealthy publishing house has caused the reduction in prices of these works to but a fraction of their former cost, and by purphasing in very large quantities and giving our pairons the greater share of the consequent reduction, we are able to make the net prices less than we had ever imagined to be nosable except by manufacturing them ourselves. Not being our own publications we cannot guarantee long continuance of these prices, nor can we allow a club rate or agent's discount.

THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE
POR 1880.

Reginning with the January number. THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE will resume its form as a monthly, a great number of readers having signified their preference for it in that shape.
At the same time it will take on a new dress of invite type, and its size will be the same as hereinfore. It is proposed in making selections to draw upon French, German and other European sources, as well as from English periodicals.
While no department of high-class literature is overlooked, especial prominence is given to articles which most ably and entertainingly discuss topics which occupy the popular thought, and to that which is of permanent rather than of transient interest.

Transient interest.

The actual cost of publishing a magnzine has been reduced fully one half within a few years, and we are, therefore, able to give more for the money than was before possible. Comparisons will show that a year's numbers of THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE will aggregate 2,304 pages, will contain more matter than The Eclectic Magazine, at $5 a year, and about one-half as much as Little's Libria Ave, at $5 a year, and about a state of THE LIBRARY MAGAZINE; $1 a year, post-age tread by the oublishers.
